Research

The research object is the passage from rules and institutional decisions to concrete practice. Implementation is the analytical core. Four dimensions organize the agenda.

Implementation Core

Where rules, capacities, spaces, technologies, and practice meet.

Judicial governance

How do coordination, institutional capacities, and governance instruments shape implementation in justice systems?

Regulation

How do intermediaries translate, certify, monitor, and transform rules into behavior?

Sociomateriality

What do buildings, technologies, documents, and infrastructures do to policy in practice?

Judicial education

How do education, knowledge, and learning expand or constrain institutional capacity?

Methods and AI. Bibliometrics, APIs, Quarto, reproducible workflows, and AI agents serve as research infrastructure for traceable evidence. See Agentic Scientific Research.
